Join us for our next meeting on charting a successful career path in IT by taking advantage of training, certification, and joining a professional IT organization, and transform your career.

If you only put effort into your immediate job without networking or exploring other opportunities, your career advancement may be limited. That's why it's important to network, continue your training, and join a professional IT organization, so that you can stay current on new trends, stay in touch with colleagues, and meet people that may help you in the future.

The landscape has changed. It's important to understand your options. Learn about the many resources available to members of AITP-LA. Learn about funding available for no-cost training and certification.

Speakers will include the following:

o Chris Phillips, Director of CompTIA's key councils planing for the future of industry

o Justin Valentine, CompTIA AITP membership manager

o Joan Samuels, Business Development Consultant/Open Tech Initiative, MCS Inc.

o Carole Schlocker, AITP-LA Programs Director and Queen of iSpace

For those who are motivated, AITP-LA offers leadership and growth opportunities. Our current leadership team will be there to share such opportunities.

Share your vision, learn others' perspectives, find common interests and opportunities. Bring your business cards for great networking.

Space is Limited, Registration is required. We'll provide the appetizers and drinks.

Members FREE and Non-members $15.

We're meeting at the newly-opened Spaces California Culver City, which provides workspace and creative environments with a unique entrepreneurial spirit.
